SPRINGFIELD, KY., WEDNESDAY, MAY 19, 1909.

NUMBER 24

EXTENSIVE PLANS

Being Made by Washington County Tobacco Warehouse Company For Next Season's Sales.

NEW HOUSE TO BE ERECTED.

The directors of the Washington County Tobacco Warehouse Co. are already making plans for running a loose leaf market next fall and winter. It was seen last year that the buildings in which the sales were conducted were not only not large enough but that they were inadequately lighted. These defects will be remedied this year, as a large new house will be erected which will be used for the purpose of selling loose tobacco and which will be modern and convenient in every detail. The plans have been drawn and accepted and are now in the hands of contractors for bids.

The Warehouse Co. has rented to the American Tobacco Co. one of the warehouses which was last year used as a breakers. It will be used by the Continental to handle the tobacco that they may purchase on the loose leaf market. The company is also negotiating for the lease of its redrying plant and will no doubt be able to rent it advantageously.

Many buyers have also begun to correspond with the directors as to next season's sales and the prospects for the Tobacco Warehouse Co. and the farmers of this and adjoining counties are indeed rosy. If the people support this enterprise as they should this should develop into one of the best loose leaf markets in the State.

Smith-Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fielder Smith have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, to Mr. Edwin Smith, the wedding to take place June 3 at St. Rose church.

Miss Smith, a very pretty and attractive young woman and a wide acquaintance with whom she is very popular. The groom-to-be is a well-known young farmer of Bloomfield. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Smith, and prior to a few years ago resided in Springfield when his father was jailer of this county.

Drowned Near Calvary.

Marion Falcon: While fishing, Tuesday, shortly before noon Mr. Jody Clements, of this city, discovered a mule which had evidently been drowned, near the Fowler ford of the Rolling Fork, below Calvary. After dinner, thinking that an accident had occurred, he walked down the river a few hundred yards and discovered the dead body of a man. Help was called and the body proved to be the remains of Charles H. Gilliam, of Finley, who had left his home Monday morning about 8 o'clock to finish a house he was building for Arnold Jarboe. In attempting to cross the ford, the water being high, mule and driver had evidently been drowned Monday morning. The remains were brought to the undertaking establishment of Bosley & Hughes in this city, and removed to New Market Wednesday afternoon, where the funeral services and interment were conducted. Deceased was an honest, hard working man, 47 years old. He is survived by his wife, one son and three daughters, who have the sympathy of the whole community.

Court Day Next Monday.

Next Monday is County Court day and the first day of the May term of Circuit Court. No doubt, as usual, there will be a large crowd in town. While in town renew your subscription to The Sun and let us send you The Kentucky Farmer for three months free of charge. This offer is open to new subscribers as well as old ones. We also have a complete clubbing list with all the leading dailies and weeklies and can offer you some bargains.

Strawberry and Ice Cream Supper

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will give a Strawberry and Ice Cream Supper at the Court House to-morrow, Thursday, May 20, from 3 to 10 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Pope Honors Bishop Spalding.

Peoria, Ill., May 15.—The Rt. Rev. John Lancaster Spalding, whose resignation as bishop of the Peoria diocese was regrettably accepted last fall, is created titular archbishop of Scythopolis by a decree of the Vatican at Rome, news of which was received to-day.

When failing strength determined Bishop Spalding to relinquish the burden of active ecclesiastical duties, Fathers Keating, of Ottawa; Waldon, of Bloomington; Duffy, of Nanville, and J. O'Reilly, of the St. Mary's Cathedral, in this city, visited Washington and urged upon the apostolic delegate the recognition of Bishop Spalding's eminent services and prominence by the conferring of special orders.

Acting upon this suggestion the matter was laid before the Pope, and the result is his advancement to the archbishopric of this Oriental See—an honor rarely conferred.

Base Ball.

Several games of base ball were played at High School park last week between some of the junior ball tossers of Springfield and visiting teams.

On Thursday Springfield defeated Bloomfield by a score of 18 to 7. The batteries were Rogers and Cox for Springfield and McCluskey and Brown for Bloomfield. On Saturday the home boys were not so fortunate, as the St. Mary's Jr. defeated them 11 to 1, while a still younger team was defeated by the boys from the Grundy Home by a score of 7 to 5.

RELIEF FOR

TOBACCO GROWERS

Provided In Revised Amendment Introduced By Senator Bradley.

Washington, May 15.—Senator Bradley offered in the Senate to-day his revised amendment for the relief of tobacco growers. It creates an entirely new section in the tariff bill and sharply draws the distinction between manufacturers and the growers. The paragraph relating to growers provides:

"That unstemmed tobacco in the natural leaf and not manufactured or altered in any manner, shall not be subject to any internal revenue tax or charge of any kind whatever, and it shall be lawful for any person to buy and sell such unstemmed tobacco in the leaf without payment of tax of any kind."

Although the election does not take place until November of next year, the Democrats in Congress are already talking about the chairman of their congressional campaign committee. From what can be learned, Representative Ben Johnson, of Kentucky, is being mentioned as more than likely to be asked to become chairman and manage the contest for control of the next House.

Revival Services.

Rev. Robt. Johnson and son, Andrew, of Wilmore, are conducting a very successful revival meeting at Mt. Zion. This meeting was begun on the 9th inst. and will continue until the 23d inst. Already there have been several additions to the church by profession of faith. Many more are expected to give up their sinful life and assume the robes of righteousness during the last week of the meeting.

Rev. Johnson is a man of great intellectual ability and a profound thinker as well as a deep theologian, and his work at Mt. Zion should leave everlasting effects.

Back From Holy Land.

Lebanon Enterprise: Right Reverend Edmond M. Obrecht, Abbot of Gethsemane, who has been in Jerusalem and the Holy Land for quite a number of weeks past on a special mission for the Order of Trappists, has returned home. Father Obrecht was accompanied home by the chief of the Trappist order, whose headquarters are in Rome. After a visit to the monastery at Gethsemane he will leave for a visit to the other institutions of the order in the United States. This is the first visit to this country of the head of the Trappists and he will be received with distinguished honors by the leading clergymen of the country. The members of the order in Nelson county will give him a particularly cordial reception.

LEGAL BRIEFS

Circuit Court Convenes Next Monday With Light Docket—Quarterly And Police Court Items.

Circuit Court convenes next Monday for the regular May term. As has been the case for some time, the docket is light. The appearance docket consists of the following cases:

IN EQUITY.

M. W. Seay vs. Arthur Gray, et al.
W. D. Claybrooke, Assignee, etc., vs. F. I. Purdon, etc.

W. D. Fehrell vs. T. H. Nally.
W. D. Claybrooke, Assignee, etc., vs. Ellis Alford.

John W. White vs. Lizzie White.
Levi Satterly vs. Alfred Satterly.
Levi Barber vs. Cato Barber.

COMMON LAW.

Landrum Buggy Co. vs. John L. Barber.
Bank of Bryantsville vs. J. M. Smith.

Cunningham & Duncan vs. Walter Foley.
H. F. Yankey vs. Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Co.

John Keen vs. R. H. Edelen.
J. K. Cheatham vs. J. S. Sutton.

Frank Leachman, a colored youth, was tried in Police Court Monday morning for a breach of the peace committed in Nichols' restaurant Sunday night. It was shown by the evidence that Frank was considerably mellow from the use of booze and was raising a general rough house to the discomfort and consternation of Nichols and his patrons and even inflicting bodily injury with a brick bat upon some of the dusky population. Frank drew a fine of $10 and trimmings.

Judge B. L. Litsey held Quarterly Court Monday. While there were quite a number of cases on the docket there were but few issues and court adjourned after having been in session but a short time. The case of Lloyd vs. Carney on appeal from a justice's court, was thrown out because of the failure of the plaintiff to allege the amount that he had been damaged by the defendant.

Attorneys John W. Lewis and T. Scott Mayes, representing Mr. W. C. Mudd, and W. C. McChord, representing the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co., reached an agreement last week whereby Mr. Mudd was paid damages for the injuries suffered by him last January when he was run into by the morning train at the crossing below the power house. The Attorneys have not made public the sum paid Mr. Mudd, but as he was seriously injured his horse killed and buggy demolished it was, no doubt, a neat sum.

Death of Mrs. Crume.

Mrs. Sam M. Crume died at the home of her father, Mr. Alex. Yates, near Mooresville, last week. Mrs. Crume had long been a sufferer from tuberculosis, and several years ago went to New Mexico for her health, but as she did not improve, returned last fall and had since resided with her father. Mrs. Crume is survived by a family. Her husband, Dr. Sam Crume, died in New Mexico since her return to Kentucky.

Saulley Nominated.

Stanford, Ky., May 17.—In one of the most exciting and warmly conducted Democratic primaries ever held in the Thirteenth judicial district, Judge M. C. Saulley was nominated for Circuit Judge over Judge John Sam Owsley. Both candidates reside here. The district comprises four counties, Lincoln, Poyle, Garrard and Mercer, and Judge Saulley carried all of them by good majorities. His majority in the district will reach 1,200. The unofficial majorities by counties are Boyle, 292; Mercer, 477; Garrard, 261, and Lincoln, 250.

Owsley made the race on a temperance platform, while Judge Saulley was known to oppose prohibition. The victory of Saulley is conceded to be a victory for the opponents of prohibition, as Owsley had the solid support of the prohibition element and the fight was made strictly on these lines.

Judge Saulley has served before as Circuit Judge of the district. Judge Owsley is the present County Judge of Lincoln county.

An Appeal to the Pride of the Owner of a Home

By The Red + Drug Store

Everyone who owns a home is anxious that that home shall make the best appearance possible. To make a proper selection of HOUSE PAINTS keep in mind the fact that the cost of labor of spreading the paint is the greatest item in the cost of re-painting. The price of house paints is therefore of no moment provided you will take Durability in consideration. It costs just as much to spread poor paint as it does to spread the best paint; consequently, the article which preserves your building for the longest period is the cheapest. The best paint is a for Linseed Oil is the life-giving, preservative element; and combined with pigments which the manufacturer knows to be best adapted and most durable, makes the ideal product. You should see to it that when you buy paints and varnishes for your house, or any part of it, or when you give an order to your painter for any painting and varnishing you want done, that he uses the very best of paint. In large work it is always best to have a practical painter; but there are many little things about the house that you can readily finish yourself by using our ready-to-apply paints. Come in and have a little paint talk with us. Now is the time to "brighten up" your home. We can tell you the best product to use for any purpose you may have in mind and secure complete finishing sketches for you.

Come in and let us figure with you on your Paints, etc., before buying elsewhere. We have a complete line of Mixed Paints, White Lead and Varnishes of every description. In fact everything in the painting line. We handle nothing but the best of Paints and our prices are made to suit all.

GOOD ROADS TALK.

The Building of Public Highways Agitating the People.

The building of good roads is having a beneficial effect on the development and prosperity of the United States. From a small beginning the States have become gridironed by highways where once there were only a few old-fashioned turnpikes.

In revolutionary times there were more trails than roads. Following the advice of George Washington at the beginning of the nineteenth century, the statesmen of the country earnestly advocated the construction of a great national highway over mountain and plains to accommodate the people who were flocking over from the South and East and from the foreign shores to settle in the West.

Congress in 1802 passed laws providing that part of the money received from the sale of Western lands should be devoted to the building of a much needed highway that should extend from Maryland to the Mississippi River, which was then considered the extreme western boundary of the United States. The original plan was to make the national highway sixty-six feet wide, similar to Roman Roads, and this road was extended from Wheeling, Va., in almost a straight line Westward through Columbus, Indianapolis and Terre Haute, Ind., to Vandalia, then the capital of Illinois. This first national highway undoubtedly exerted a tremendous influence in the early efforts made to settle the new Western States.

Transportation via railroads and rivers and canals had not come into vogue. The old roads were still used, but the Western farmer could not prosper as much as they desired until the road finally reached them in the forties and fifties.

Now, in addition to railways and waterways, there are servicable roads in all States, but most of these can be improved, as is illustrated by the magnificent State highways in Massachusetts which was a pioneer in this work. Other large States also have highways commissions, and large appropriations are made annually for better roads. The work of securing good roads must go on for some time before the desired result can be secured. Bad roads are still too numerous and are very close together in each State.

It is evident that the slightest saving in cost of hauling per ton would assume striking proportions when considered for the whole country. Figures show that our great crops travel in wagons over the country roads 208,432,644 miles, merely in being transported from the farm to the railroad shipping point.

It has also been established by thorough investigation that the average cost of hauling per mile is about 25 cents; on stone roads, dry and in good order, about 8 cents; on stone roads in ordinary condition, 12 cents; on earth roads containing ruts and mud, 30 cents; on sandy roads when dry, 64 cents.

It is claimed that a reduction in the cost of hauling from 25 to 12 cents would mean an average saving of over $250,000,000. This refers simply to stone roads in ordinary condition.

A saving of $250,000,000 principally to farmers through having proper roads is a matter of supreme importance. All money saved in transportation on highways would mean more saving of the profits received for products carried to market. In addition to these advantages, it is impossible to estimate the remarkable increased value to lands which border good roads. This increase in land values would offset largely the expense of building the roads.

From every point of view the building of highways on which travel is easy is to-day of paramount importance not only to farmers and drivers of all sorts of vehicles, but also to numerous trades which employ thousands of men on work that, directly or indirectly, is connected with transportation on highways. — Farm Press.

Polly of the Circus

BY MARGARET MAYO

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

"Entreat me not to leave thee," he read, "or to return from following after thee, for whither thou goest I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people and thy God my God."

He stopped to ponder over the poetry of the lines.

"Kind of pretty, ain't it?" Polly said softly. She felt awkward and constrained and a little overawed.

"There are far more beautiful things than that," Douglas assured her enthusiastically as the echo of many such rang in his ears.

"There are?" And her eyes opened wide with wonder.

"Yes, indeed," he replied, pitying more and more the starvation of mind and longing to bring to it floods of light and enrichment.

"I guess I'd like to hear you speak," and she fell to studying him solemnly.

"You would?" he asked eagerly.

"Is there any more to that story?" she asked, ignoring his question.

"Yes, indeed."

"Would you read me a little more?"

She was very humble now.

"Where thou diest will I die, and there will I be buried. The Lord do so to me, and more also, if I ought but death part me and thee."

"Their eyes met. There was a long pause. Suddenly the sharp, sweet notes of the church bell brought John Douglas to his feet with a start of surprise.

"Have you got to go?" Polly asked regretfully.

"Yes, I must, but I'll read the rest from the church. Open the window, Mandy!" And he passed out of the door and quickly down the stairs.

"ENTREAT ME NOT TO LEAVE THEE," HE READ.

CHAPTER VI.

WHEN John Douglas's uncle of fered to educate his nephew for the ministry the boy was less enthusiastic than his mother. He did not remonstrate, however, for it had been the custom of generations for at least one son of each Douglas family to preach the gospel of Calvinism, and his father's career as an architect and landscape gardener had not left him much capital.

Douglas senior had been recognized as an artist by the few who understood his talents, but there is small demand for the builder of picturesque houses in the little business towns of the middle west, and at last he passed away, leaving his son only the burden of his financial failure and an ardent desire to succeed at the profession in which his father had fared so badly. The hopeless, defeated look on the departed man's face had always haunted the boy, who was artist enough to feel his father's genius intuitively and human enough to resent the injustice of his fate.

Douglas' mother had suffered so much because of the impractical efforts of her husband that she discouraged the early tendencies of the son toward drawing and mathematics and tried to direct his thoughts toward creeds and Bible history. When he went away for his collegiate course she was less in touch with him and he was able to steal time from his athletics to devote to his art. He spent his vacations in a neighboring city where a drawing board in the office of his distinguished architect, his father's friend.

Douglas was not a brilliant divinity student, and he was relieved at last when he received his degree in theology and found himself appointed to a small church in the middle west.

His step was very bright the morning he first went up the path that led to his new home. His artistic sense was charmed by the picturesque approach to the church and parsonage. The view toward the tree-enclosed spire was unobstructed, for the church had been built on the outskirts of the town to allow for a growth that had not materialized. He threw up his head and gazed at the blue hills, with their background of soft, slow moving clouds. The smell of the fresh earth, the bursting of the buds, the forming of new life, set him thrilling with a joy that was very near to pain.

He stopped halfway up the path and considered the advantages of a new front to the narrow caved cottage, and when his foot touched the first step of the vine covered porch he was far more concerned about a new portico than with any thought of his first sermon.

His speculations were abruptly cut short by Mandy, who bustled out of the door with a wide smile of welcome on her black face and an unmistakable ambition to take him immediately under her motherly wing. She was much concerned because the church people had not met the new pastor at the station, and when his foot touched the first step of the vine covered porch he was far more concerned about a new portico than with any thought of his first sermon.

He stopped halfway up the path and considered the advantages of a new front to the narrow caved cottage, and when his foot touched the first step of the vine covered porch he was far more concerned about a new portico than with any thought of his first sermon.

sawed Mandy shortly. She turned out the last light and tiptoed upstairs, trying not to disturb the pastor.

John Douglas was busy already with pencil and paper, making notes of the plans for the church and parsonage, which he would perfect later on. Alas, for Douglas' day dreams! It was not many weeks before he understood with a heavy heart that the deacons were far too dull and uninspired to share his faith in beauty as an aid to man's spiritual uplift.

"We think we've done pretty well by this church," said Deacon Strong, who was the business head, the political boss and the moral mentor of the small town's affairs. "Just you worry along with the preaching, young man, and we'll attend to the buying and building operations."

Douglas' mind was too active to content itself wholly with the writing of sermons and the routine of formal pastoral calls. He was a keen humanitarian, so little by little he came to be interested in the heart stories and disappointments of many of the village unfortunates, some of whom were outside his congregation. The mentally sick, the despondent, who needed words of hope and courage more than dry talks on theology, found in him an ever ready friend and adviser, and these came to love and depend on him. But he was never popular with the creed bound element of the church.

Mandy had her wish about being on the spot the first time the pastor's jaw squared itself at Deacon Strong. The deacon had called at the parsonage to demand that Douglas put a stop to the boys playing ball in the adjoining lot on Sunday. Douglas had been unable to see the deacon's point of view. He declared that baseball was a healthy and harmless form of exercise, that the air was meant to be breathed and that the boys who enjoyed the game on Sunday were principally those who were kept indoors by work on other days. The close of the interview was unsatisfactory both to Douglas and the deacon.

"They kinder made me cold an' prickly all up an' down de back," Mandy said later when she described their talk to Hasty. "Dat 'ere deacon don't know nuffin 'bout gittin' round de parson."

She tossed her head with a feeling of superiority. She knew the way. Make him forget himself with a laugh. Excite his sympathy with some village underdog.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them.

FARM AND STOCK

Items of Interest to Farmers and Live Stock and Poultry Raisers.

In the summer guard against excessive heat by providing shade whenever practical. Chickens suffer as much from excessive heat as from cold, and a remedy for the former is more difficult.

Five cents worth of Fish Berries, from any drug store, crushed in a pint of whisky, rubbed on turkeys affected with lice will kill the lice. Apply every two weeks.

Carrots are especially good for cows and horses, while a few mangolds for cows, sheep and hogs promote health and growth. For poultry they make a perfect substitute for green feed or other kinds.

A scaly-legged hen should never be used as a sitter or a brood hen, for she will invariably give this foul trouble to the whole brood, for it is easily transmissible, as the stale-mite will leave the feet of the mother for those of the growing chickens, and we have seen chickens a few months old infected with the disease and communicated to them by the mother hen.

A Pennsylvania dairyman who has kept a record says it takes 150 quarts of milk to produce a calf that will weigh 160 pounds at four weeks. His record of feeding 80 calves showed 12,000 quarts of milk, and for which he received $481, or four cents per quart, and the calves did the milking. He says the calves must be good ones—not little, runty Jerseys.

Feed laying hens a dry man, composed of different grains that make a ration balanced to contain all the elements in the egg. For egg production, green bone is essential. Corn is good in winter but do not feed too much of it in summer. In winter, laying hens should have a part of their food ground but should have enough unground grain to give them the necessary exercise to pick it up. This should be fed in the morning. Alfalfa meal is good for egg production and grits and shells are necessary. Charcoal is a tonic for hens and they should have all they want of it.

It is claimed by some men who know how to handle sheep that they clear 100 per cent. upon their investment. Perhaps not every farmer could do that, but certainly by better management most farmers can increase their profits.

Do not let the geese or ducks for fattening have access to the water. Feed liberally on a ration of barley meal, cornmeal, beef scraps and some chopped vegetables. Keep them in a subdued light, and keep their quarters clean. Let them go 24 hours without feed before killing.

Sunshine is better than medicine. An abundance of sunlight in the cow stables so arranged that it may reach every part of the stable is one of the best preventatives of disease. When possible the cow stables should be separate from the barn in order to secure proper ventilation and the necessary sunlight which it is impossible to obtain in any other way.

Asparagus is a native of Europe, but is adapted to all parts of the United States. Asparagus is one of the most valuable of the garden vegetables. It is perfectly hardy, never fails to produce a crop, is one of the first vegetables to be obtained in the spring and may be used until the middle of June. Perhaps no other vegetable is more highly esteemed by those who are accustomed to its use. It has also a beneficial effect upon the health of the consumer in its very favorable action upon the kidneys.

A BUSINESS PARABLE.

Once a farmer had 1,800 bushels of wheat, which he sold, not to a single grain merchant, but to 1,800 different dealers, a bushel each. A few of them paid in cash, but far the greater number said it was not convenient then; they would pay later. A few months passed, and the man's bank account ran low. "How is this?" he said. "My 1,800 bushels of grain should have kept me in affluence until another crop is raised, but I have parted with the grain and have instead only a vast number of accounts, so small and scattered that I cannot get around and collect fast enough to pay expenses." So he posted up a public notice and asked all those who owed him to pay quickly. But few came. The rest said: "Mine is only a small matter, and I will go and pay some of these days," forgetting that, though each account was very small, when all were put together they meant a large sum to the man. Things went on thus. The man got to feeling so badly that he fell out of bed and awoke, and running to his granary, found his 1,800 bushels of wheat still safe there. He had only been dreaming. Moral.—The next day the man went to the publisher of his paper and said: "Here, sir, is the pay for your paper, and when next year's subscription is due you can depend on me to pay promptly. I stood in the position of an editor last night, and I know how it feels to have one's honestly earned money scattered all over the country in small amounts."—Ex.

Before It Is Too Late.

If you have a gray-haired mother in the old home far away, Sit you down and write the letter you put off from day to day. Don't wait until her weary steps Reach heaven's pearly gate, But show her that you think of her Before it is too late.

If you have a tender message, Or a loving word to say, Don't wait till you forget it, But whisper it to-day. Who knows what bitter memories May haunt you if you wait? So make your loved one happy Before it is too late.

The tender words unspoken, The letters never sent, The long-forgotten messages, The wealth of love unspoken, For these some hearts are breaking, For these some loved ones wait; Show them that you care for them Before it is too late. (George Bancroft Griffith, in La Porte City, Ia. Press.)

Greatest Bargains Ever Offered In Pianos

I have two beautiful Upright Mahogany Pianos that I will sell at a GREAT REDUCTION. I must close them out in order to make room for other goods that are coming. Do not MISS this opportunity as you may never have such a one again.

I will be at my home in Springfield this week and can be seen at E. M. Russell's Jewelry Store all day Monday.

These goods must be closed out not later than next Monday in order to be ready for the goods that are coming.

You will be agreeably surprised when you see the handsome Pianos and hear the low prices.

VALLEY HILL.

Your correspondent has been on the sick list for several days, and the readers of our letters will excuse a feeble attempt this week we hope.

Corn planting is finished in this section and an unusual acreage is reported, due, we presume, to the shortage and high prices existing at present.

The wheat crop is very favorable for an abundant yield this season, if a good season is experienced and no insects infest the growing fields.

Many of our farmers have had considerable losses this spring in their swine herds due to cholera and other infectious diseases.

Robt. Thompson, the local wool buyer, of this place, received wool here Monday. Good wool has a ready sale at 30c.

Tatum & Brown shipped a carload of fine hogs to Tatum & Emery, at the Bourbon yards, Louisville, Tuesday.

Ernest Groatley, who has been on the sick list, is now convalescent.

Miss Lillie May Jones, of Springfield, visited Miss Ruby O'Neal at this place Saturday.

John Polin, of Poortown, was in our midst Saturday.

Misses Nora and Claudie Piles, of McIntire, visited their grandmother here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Head, of near town, visited friends here Sunday.

Rev. A. C. Pinkston filled his regular appointment here Sunday. The usual crowd was in attendance.

Mrs. Chas. Litsey and daughter, of Litsey, were guests of relatives here Sunday.

We are glad to learn that Mrs. Earle Whittemen is again convalescent.

W. R. Moran is at home with his parents to spend vacation, after attending school in Springfield the past session.

Miss Nannie Head has returned to her home here, after an extended visit to her grandmother at East Texas.

Lewis Head has returned to his home here, after a brief visit to relatives near town.

Byron Parks, of Springfield, had a very valuable mare to die at this place on last Friday from founder. He was returning from Louisville with several horses and a black mare ate too much corn and oats, which resulted in her death in a short time.

W. F. Moran recently purchased a quantity of corn of Palmer Goatley at 75c per bushel.

Peyton Briggs sold his entire crop of corn to J. F. Gregory at 80c per bushel last week.

Walter Briggs was in Springfield Friday on business.

Robert Moran visited relatives at Pleasant Grove Saturday and Sunday.

Several from this place attended the ball game at Litsey Saturday.

Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Wolfe were guests of friends here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wells, of Springfield, Hubert Virgin and wife, of Maud, were guests of Mrs. Palmer Goatley Sunday.

Rev. Pinkston, who has been preaching at the home of Mr. T. A. Tatum on the third Sunday in each month, has changed the date to the first Sunday afternoon in each month.

HAPPY HOLLOW.

Mr. Solomon Kays and family spent Sunday with Mrs. Bellzona Hanby, of this place.

Mr. Sabe Coulter and family spent Saturday and Sunday with the family of Mr. Samuel Coulter.

Messrs. Ernest Shewmaker and Walter Hanby attended meeting at Willisburg Sunday.

Mrs. Ernest Perkins spent from Friday until Sunday with her father, Mr. John Armstrong and family.

Mr. Edward Hanby and wife attended meeting at Rockbridge Sunday.

Mrs. John Armstrong and daughter attended meeting at Willisburg Sunday and dined with Mr. J. W. Walls and family.

Mrs. Bellzona Hanby and two sons spent last Sunday and Monday with the family of Mr. Lee Settles.

There was a very large crowd at Sunday School Sunday afternoon.

Base Ball.

Speaking of base ball, of course, when a reporter sees a good thing he reports it, but we didn't see it.

Even in the modern days, when lawyers, doctors, preachers, millers and skilled farmers shake off the manacles of daily toil and hie out to the diamond to enjoy a social game of the national sport in which great enthusiasm is aroused and much interest manifested, the outcome of a game. What is more disheartening than to lose sleep, time and patience thinking of such an enjoyable time to be spent on the diamond or in the bleachers viewing the excellent playing of shrewd ball fiends, and then meet a miserable pretense instead.

Such deception was shown by the "Rag Weeds" team on last Saturday, when they boldly went to Poortown to play that invincible Litsey League. Even had the nerve to invite a crowd to see their finish, and they saw it, to the tune of 17 to 6.

At first, a good game was promised, with L. D. Walker, of Valley Hill, twirling and Oscar Walker behind the bat, and a bunch of, well, we thought, ball players behind them, but de-c-e-i-v-e-d doesn't spell it.

The first inning was a good one, resulting 5 to 0 in favor of the "Rag Weeds," but alas, VanArsdale came down to his usual form and pitched great ball.

Haynes, behind the bat, was the leading feature, as he made several striking stops of those celebrated "Miller curves." In fact, there were several features deserving especial mention, especially the hits by Polin, Hopper, Litsey and Haynes.

After the first two innings the Valley Hill star pitcher, went up on the air, and it was hard to tell whether he was our local pitch or Orville Wright, the expert aeroplane driver, but he came down at the end of the 7th and had enough wind left to say "ruff" and hied out for home, leaving the Litsey League with another game up the percentage column.

The Springfield boys are coming out by special arrangement of the managers to grace the Litsey diamond with their smiles and winning qualities and defeat the local team, if possible, on Saturday afternoon, the 22nd. A good game is expected. Everybody invited. Game called at 2:30 p. m. UNO.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflammatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invariably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lameness, lame back, lame shoulder and stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the affected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For sale by The Leo Haydon Drug Co.

Swearing to Validity of an Excuse.

Kissing the book seems to be on the point of being consigned to well-deserved oblivion, and England might easily take pattern by the form of oath that obtains in the Channel Islands. The 12 rectors are ex-officio members of the States of Jersey, and in common with other constituent elements of the same body they may frequently be seen with the uplifted hand swearing to the validity of the excuse that another member is absent through illness. The custom has been handed down from a Norman ancestor that ever recognized the sacred finality of putting a man on his oath, and emphasizes most strikingly the parallel values of the right hand and of a man's plighted word. "Poingdester" is still a Jersey surname.—The Guardian.

Woman Skilled as Woodworker.

Lady Colebrooke, who is famous alike for her beauty, accomplishments and skill as a political hostess, possesses a wonderfully complete carpenter's and wood carving shop at Abington, Lanarkshire. Here she has not only turned out some clever pieces of work, but she has taught some of the village girls on her husband's estate how to fashion wood by hammer and chisel.

Lady Colebrooke is a clever sculptor too and has exhibited at the Paris Salon. She shares with her husband a love of all that is artistic and beautiful, and to add to all these varied accomplishments she can drive a four-in-hand and a Russian droschky and three.—M. A. P.

Anything to Oblige.

They were a very young and obviously bride and bridegroomish looking couple. On entering the little tea shop in the upper avenue the maid tactfully led them to a private room which chanced to be vacant. Tea was ordered and served. As the waitress was leaving the room the young man discovered an important fault in the service.

"Oh, waitress," he said, "may we have a spoon?"

"Sure," said the girl; "I won't come back for ten minutes, and you can have the room all to yourselves."—Tit-Bits.

In Our Boarding House.

"Why do the Newlyweds talk so much about going to housekeeping?" they want to go, why don't they go?"

"It's a scheme to scare the landlady. Notice how they get the best sections of chicken!"

RECORD IS A BRILLIANT ONE.

Virginia Military Institute Has a Deserved Reputation as Second to None Other.

"In all the professions and vocations of life," says a writer in the National Magazine, "the men trained at the Virginia Military Institute have won for themselves honorable distinction. The record of services rendered by her sons in the civil, Spanish and Philippine wars has established the reputation of the Virginia Military Institute upon an enduring foundation."

"In the regular army her graduates are found in numbers second only to those of West Point. The Marine corps and the navy also claim a large number of these finely-educated and disciplined young men. The institute has been officially recognized by the imperial government of China, a number of student cadets from the Flowery Kingdom having been sent to the institute."

"At the commencement exercises in June, 1908, the guest of honor, Maj. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the United States army, addressing the cadets referred to the school as 'an institution which of its kind is second to none other in the world.'"

"On the anniversary of the conflict now known as New Market day at the institute the names of the cadets who fell in battle at that time are inserted in the company rolls, and as they are called by the sergeant a cadet of the first class steps to the front, salutes and reports: 'Died on the field of honor, sir.' Their names will ever live in the memory of the institute and of the commonwealth of Virginia."

"Five of the killed are buried in the cadet cemetery on the institute grounds, and on New Market day the battalion marches to this beautiful and secluded spot and there fires three volleys over the graves of the young heroes."

"One cannot leave this little cemetery without feelings of deepest emotion as he contemplates the sacrifices so gallantly made years ago by the youthful soldiers of Virginia. A more beautiful spot for a last resting place was never seen than this—in the quiet and peaceful valley of the Shenandoah."

Unhappy Lot of Chinese Doctors.

He patches health by contract. Each family from whom he receives a yearly stipend can command his services at will. Hence his interest is to keep down sickness among subscribers, especially since every day of illness means to him not only loss of time, but the deduction of a day's pay from his honorarium.

Comparatively secure is the lot of the ordinary Chinese practitioners, for whom the utmost penalty for a mischance is loss of income, as compared with that of the imperial court physician. To this high functionary, who attends the high officials also, inability to cure a patient is a matter of graver moment. This in November last the deaths of the empress dowager and the young emperor resulted in the degradation by two classes of five doctors, while the president of the imperial hospital and two assistants were prohibited altogether from following their profession.—Harper's Weekly.

Smuggling Chinese.

Australia is perturbed by the discoveries of Mr. Batchelor, the commonwealth minister for external affairs, who has been inquiring into the illegal influx of Chinese. There is a wealthy organization in China with agencies in all the principal Australian ports and with the connivance of ships' officers the systematic smuggling of Chinese into Australia has been carried on for a long time.

The ships trading between Hongkong and the Australian ports have been so cunningly supplied with false bulkheads, walls and floors that hiding room has been provided for 80 Chinese stowaways on a single voyage. Ship cooks have been secretly paid to supply the stowaways with food.

The trade is very profitable, as Australia is only a few days' steaming from China and many thousands of Mongolians are always ready to pay large sums and run all sorts of risks to get to the land of gold.

Jarred Queen Wilhelmina.

Queen Wilhelmina has a good ear for music, and once when an amateur musician was playing at the court she nearly disgraced herself from the point of view of royal discipline. His playing was anything but brilliant, and it so jarred on the young queen's ear that she hastily jumped up and left the room. Her courtiers remonstrated with her. "I know I ought not to have done what I did," she said. "I mean to be polite to my people, but I cannot be polite to wrong harmonies." Later she sent for the poor musician and begged his pardon, but it was a question whether her condescension as a queen was great enough to offset the fact that this only seemed to make a bad matter worse.

Spread of the Cigarette.

Virginia cigarettes were introduced in 1875, and with the invention of machinery that can turn out 180,000 a day cigarettes became cheap and popular. The annual consumption of cigarettes in Great Britain now runs into billions, and of penny (two-cent) packets alone (each containing five) the weekly output is 60,000,000.

Customary.

"How did I think celebrate his purchase of a new auto?"

"Why, he had a big blow-out."—Yak Record.

MR. BRYAN'S PLANS

In response to repeated demands, coming from every section of the United States, Mr. Bryan will conduct a vigorous Campaign of Education through The Commonsense, and assist in the organization of "An educational club in every precinct." These clubs will promote the work of education among the voters on all political questions affecting the American people.

To advance this educational plan, each issue of The Commonsense will contain a special article on some pertinent political subject, designed to present, in an instructive way, authentic historical information, to give valuable statistical data, to carefully analyze the opposing arguments, and to discuss their application to present-day conditions.

The following subjects, and others, upon which all Americans should be accurately informed, will be discussed:

FREE BOOKS FOR EVERYONE

The Commonsense, to start this campaign of education, and to place this series of articles in the hands of as many voters as possible, will give FREE, and express prepaid anywhere in the United States, the following splendid books:

The Life and Works of Abraham Lincoln—Six volumes, 2,000 pages, bound in red cloth, gold back stamp. Introductions and special articles by Theodore Roosevelt, President Taft, Governor Hughes, Henry Watterson and others. Full biography, anecdotes, tributes, early speeches, famous Lincoln-Douglas debates in full, later speeches and important addresses, all presidential speeches and state papers. This fine set neatly packed in box sent FREE and express prepaid to anyone sending 10 yearly subscriptions at the regular year's rate of $1 each.

The Old World and Its Ways—Mr. Bryan's own book, presenting his tour around the world and journeys through Europe. His impressions are highly instructive and entertaining. Contains 116 Imperial Octavo pages, over 100 superb engravings from photographs taken or procured by him. Richly bound in extra English cloth, gold side and back, regular selling price $2. Given FREE for club of five names at $1 each. Regular $5 half leather edition, for 7 names; regular $4 full Morocco edition, for 9 names.

Bryan The Man—An impartial portrayal of his personal life, gathered from actual incidents in his home and public life, political campaigns, and world tour. Mr. Bryan as an editor, as a farmer, as a humorist, as a lecturer, as a soldier. In the pulpit, etc., etc. Handsomely bound in green cloth, 151 pages, beautifully illustrated. FREE for club of three names at $1 each.

Letters to a Chinese Official—Mr. Bryan's reply to the famous "Letters From a Chinese Official." A superb vindication of western civilization and ideals in answer to an attack on the religion, standards and purposes of our race. Selling price 55 cents. A neat volume of 98 pages. Given FREE for club of two names at $1 each.

Start this week among your friends and secure these books FREE, any time you wish, and to secure subscribers for The Commonsense. It is taken by people of all parties, and contains departments of interest to every member of the family. Educational clubs will be organized in every county, and many subscribers in order to secure The Commonsense's Course of Study. These articles and other special features will well repay the subscriber, and anyone may be proud to have the books which we offer FREE, in their library.

Secure and send in your subscription list at once, and state what book or books you desire sent to you. Your own name may be included in any list, and a renewal subscription will count the same as a new one. Any boy or girl can take advantage of this offer. Make remittance by post-office money order and address—THE COMMONSENSE, Lincoln, Neb.

The Flood

By Samuel Lincoln

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"Say," said Tommy, "did I ever tell you about the circus we had at our house the other night?"

"No," said I, settling back in my chair, "let me hear."

"Well," continued Tommy, "it was a peach, considering that the center of disturbance was nothing but a china bathtub, like a canary bird's or a hotel vegetable dish—same-blame thing—only larger."

"Well, as I was saying, it was on a Saturday night, and I came home very early, about 2 a. m. I wasn't particularly anxious for the folks to know what time I got in, as the dad had had a notion to mow down my allowance for a couple of moons past. He's always preaching about early worms and birds and opportunity and things."

"I could see my fond parents waiting up for me with tracts, but I braced the game and in I went. Nothing doing—no parental greeting—house like a tomb. Then I heard a soft peep from the head of the stairs: 'Tommy, is that you?'"

"Sure," says I, "were you looking for some one else?"

"Come on up," says sis, "there's a lot doing."

"In a minute," says I. I located the ice-water tank and imbibed generously. Then, with some difficulty, I ascended to the upper deck.

"The proud and happy author of my being and the publisher of the same were doing some kind of a splash act," O, Tommy, says sis, "I'm so glad you've come—we're all going to be drowned!"

"Sis was skylarking around the main cabin in a mosquito netting she called a bathgown, and the fond and dutiful parents were likewise attired."

"Thomas," says the governor, "it is three o'clock, and you may as well spend the rest of the evening profitably. We are all much wearied with the unaccustomed exertion." With this he hands me a pall.

"The city's reservoir was backing up into our tub, and the family was dipping it out and pouring it into the washbowl. I could see what would happen if we didn't bail it out—the ranch would flow down the street in about two hours by the clock. The more I bailed the less good it did. I took about 97 pails of water out of that thing, and it was no joke, either, as my roof was full of bats from the evening's unmerited."

"Who found it?" asks I.

"Me," says sis. "When I got ready to hit the sheets, I came in here for my evening's swim and found the tub filled up to its own accord. I blew the the white and piped all heads on deck." Of course, that wasn't her exact language, but it's the idea.

"I bailed for two hours straight, with sis encouraging me and begging me to omit mutilating the English. The hinge on my back got rusty and my brain cells began to work. 'See here,' says I to sis, 'you bail a while. I'm going after a plumber or something.'"

"Plumber," scoffed sis; "what plumber would come here at half-past four on a Sunday morning?"

"It'll be five by the time that I pipe his nose," says I, "and plumbers ought to be up early, even if it is Sunday morning. The early bird catches the worm. Money'll bring him, and he can look to the governor for it."

"All right," says sis, "I'll bail."

"While we went on talking the tub filled itself again. The water rose in distinct kegs, or tides, and I couldn't seem to make any headway. Sis said that when I had a good start, she'd yell for help, and get the rest of the family at it again. They'd been sleeping now for two hours, net. Well, I bailed off down the avenue without the slightest notion of the plumber quarter. I woke up a druggist, who cursed me good and plenty and then, some how he found that I only wanted to look at his directory, and he banged the door in my map without giving me a look at his saluted book. Then I piped a jay to port, rolling forwards me, and as he looked respectable, I fagged him."

"Kind sir," says I, "can you put me wise to a pipe snatching here?"

"Young man, I don't understand you. I am a throat doctor myself. That don't fill the specifications," says I; "I don't want a bacteria sharp, only a k-a-p-p-e doctor."

"O," says he, and he located a joint for me where the plumber slept over his office. "Is there a night bell?" says I. "Donno," says he. "You'll have to rap. I picked up a brick to rap with with its spring lock, and her latch-key on the mantel, just as Dick had told her. She comprehended the situation in a breath, was frightened, almost collapsed. It availed her nothing to kick and push and sputter out her passion; the wood and the night kept grim and silent. She tried the other doors, but Mr. Twindle had treated them with an exasperating sureness.

Everything having failed her, she felt forlorn enough for a hearty spell of crying. There were neighbors, it was true, but she was a stranger and proud and wouldn't go to them and make herself ridiculous with her story. No! She would try to keep warm until Dick came, which oughtn't to be long. So she trotted to and fro in the lee of the house, tantalized by what she saw through the windows, and recalling, in comical contrast, the poor Peri who had "stood disconsolate" at the gate of Eden, and wondered how that angel would get along with the Twindle job on this arctic night. This thinking of Paradise and its perfumes, especially the latter, reminded her of the smell of the heated varnish on the registers, of the airing she had given the house that afternoon, and how, afterwards, all the windows but one had been closed and locked, the exception being left up a finger's width for ventilation. She gave a little cry of joy over this chance of escape from the weather and from discovery by Dick. That window was on the other side of the house, perhaps twenty feet back from the sidewalk. Her spirits took a tumble when she found the sill was five feet from the ground, measuring it by her own height of five feet two. A stepping block was necessary. It was found, in the shape of an empty nail keg, on top of a pile of carpenter's rubbish in the back yard. Hardly had she mounted when its head fell in. One leg was trapped. With stoical endurance she extricated it, smarting with nail-point stings.

Most men would have sworn in some language; if she could, she didn't, but, instead, used her good leg like a golf stick to spin the keg away with a mighty kick. What next was to be done? for there was no spare time. Nothing, unless a shivery old wheelbarrow, the plasters had been too proud to take away and mean enough to leave could be used. It was, from the start, an obstinate derelict, wildly careening, and viciously trying to travel on its sides, its broken wheel giving it a pig-like contrariety. Warned by this opposition, Mrs. Twindle pugnaciously flung aside her shawl, and after many a puff and grunt fought the barrow to where she wanted it. The couple of tip-ups that followed did not discourage her. Once balanced, she found the window both unlocked and unweighted. She raised the sash until it stuck in the runways high enough for her to crawl under, after which, getting a good grip on the inside casing, she sprang upward towards the opening; at the same instant the barrow, as perverse as ever, flopped over. Her shoulders struck against and loosened the sash, which dropped into the small of her back, holding her as if in a vise, half in, half out, of the house—a tropical heat around her head, an arctic breeze flitting her draperies and walking her walking sticks. There the little woman stuck, struggling a good deal and crying just a little—being fearful, all the time that some individual other than Dick might discover her predicament, a possibility that made her frantic.

"And why doesn't Dick come?" she continually asked herself. "Why should he be an hour on a 20-minute errand? I can't keep up this kicking much longer," she thought, when the minutes seemed to have grown into hours. "But if I stop I'll freeze; and if I freeze, he'll have to thaw me out in water, as if I were a frozen fish, and that'll not be nice for anybody."

Then she fought the harder and just as vainly, not so much to get into the house as to keep her consciousness. Still, Dick did not come, nor any one else, and so, at last, exhausted and despairing, she fainted.

When, not more than a minute later, Mrs. Twindle knew herself again it was to feel strong arms tugging at her outdoor extremities and a certainty in her mind that either the widow frame must go, or that she, not being of India rubber, would part in the middle. She heard and knew with joy the voice of the toiler at her feet.

"Dick," she called, faintly. "I'm awfully glad it's you and not some body else. But, dear, please work from inside the house! It'll be easier and I'll live longer."

"Barring the leg decorations, a 'tired feeling' in her back, a hollow in her stomach, and a head that ached clear down to her shoulder blades—mere trifles," she persistently insisted—Mrs. Twindle, released from captivity, declared herself in fine condition, and would not hear of Mr. Twindle "going for a doctor."

"But this was a rather serious case of grip, don't you think?" he asked, trying to keep down a smile. "A ready-made hot-water bottle, arnica, corn plaster, smelling-salts, bandages, salves, a pocketful of cough-cures, and a small bottle of patent-medicine almanacs containing emergency prescriptions. Still, I guess you're right as to the physician. Now, my dear, I'd like you to explain to me how I had this chance of talking you for a burglar, which I thought you were until I heard you speak."

"It was a lock-out, Dick, in this way"—and, cuddled up in his arms, like a tired child, she told the story.

CARDWELL.

W. L. Graham and E. T. Perkins were in Lawrenceburg Monday on business.

Several accidents occurred in this vicinity Sunday. While Mrs. Charley Ward was driving along the road, her horse became frightened and she jumped from the buggy. In doing so she broke her ankle. At present she is doing nicely. Mr. John S. Wats, while coming down the Grapevine hill, his horse became frightened and ran away. He was thrown from the buggy breaking several ribs, dislocating his knee cap, inflicting several cuts and bruising him up considerably. Dr. Nooe was called and is attending him. Mr. Clarence McMillen and Mr. Coulter were driving down the Riley Hill, when the horse ran away, completely demolishing Clarence's new buggy. Neither one was seriously injured. Another accident occurred at the home of Mr. Jenkins. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins were visiting at Rose Hill Sunday and while away a pack peddler called at their home. Their watch dog assaulted him severely lacerating his arm in his defense to keep the dog from his throat. He however, finally managed to get away and is now charitably kept by W. L. Moore until he is again able to make his way.

Mr. S. G. Cull received wool at this place Saturday evening at 30c a pound. W. H. Litteral bought of James Long a mare for $140.

Kosmoy Shirley purchased a mare for $200.

On the second Sunday in June there will be Children's Day at Mt. Freedom and Listen Dinner on the ground. Rev. Williams of Springfield will preach at 11 A. M. Everybody is invited and requested to bring a basket and enjoy a day of freedom.

Pain Weakens

Headache, rheumatism, neuralgia, or pains of any nature weaken the system—they are a strain upon the nerves. Almost instant relief can be obtained by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and without any bad after-effects. Take one on first indication of an attack—it will ward it off. They are a pleasant little tablet, sold by druggists everywhere, 25 doses 25 cents; never sold in bulk.

"I was subject to constant headache for a period of four years. I was almost unable to do the work in which I was engaged, and at last I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and the result has been that I have entirely eradicated my system of these continuous headaches that follow a continual mental strain. They have done for me all that is claimed for them."

O. L. RUSSELL, Agt. C. & N. W. Ry., Battle Creek, Ia., "I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for a year now for neuralgia and find there is nothing like them. They surely have been a blessing to me."

Marion County.

(Falcon, Leader and Enterprise.)

The grand jury adjourned finally Monday and on that day returned into court forty indictments as follows: Selling liquor in local option territory, 20; liquor to minors, 10; breach of peace, 3; house-breaking, 1; maintaining a nuisance, 1; suffering minor to play pool, 1; false swearing, 1; carrying concealed a deadly weapon, 1; larceny, 1; and converting property, 1. They had previously returned nine true bills, one for chicken stealing and 8 for selling liquor in local option territory.

Mrs. Martina Bickett, sixty-seven years of age, widow of the late Nat Bickett, died at her home in Raywick Saturday morning.

In the death of Mr. John E. Lewis, who died at his home at Raywick Monday afternoon, Marion county lost another one of its best and most substantial citizens. Mr. Lewis had been in failing health since the death of his son, Mr. Will Lewis, three weeks ago. Sunday he was caught in the rain and pneumonia soon developed, having been seriously ill only 48 hours when the end came.

The suit of Mrs. Nannie Powers against the National Casket Company and Scott Moore, of Louisville, for damages in the sum of $7,000, was tried in the circuit court the first of the week, and resulted in the jury awarding the plaintiff a judgment for $3,500. While returning home from a visit in the neighborhood where they live the horse that was being driven by Mrs. Powers and her aunt, Mrs. Mary Elliott, took fright at Mr. Moore's automobile and ran off. Both occupants were thrown from the buggy and dangerously hurt. The accident occurred on the Danville pike, near Gravel Switch last November. Mr. Moore is connected with the National Casket Company as a traveling salesman. The suit of Mrs. Elliott against the same defendants will be tried next week.

Biliousness and Constipation.

For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Peppin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been to-day had I not tried Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, purify the stomach, liver and blood, helping the system to do its work naturally.—MRS. ROSA PORTS, Birmingham, Ala. These tablets are for sale by The Leo Haydon Drug Co.

Mr. Uriah Keeling and Mr. Mark Hungate are very ill at this writing. Mr. Russell Dedman, who sustained an injury last week by falling from the top of a tree which he had climbed in an attempt to capture a squirrel for a sick neighbor, has about recovered.

Mrs. Sofia E. Wornall has returned from San Francisco, Cal., to take charge of the summer hotel here and has begun the work of beautifying the grounds about the hotel and springs. Things are moving with a more lively spirit than last season and a good crowd with the always present good time is predicted.

The editor of The Sun is certainly a good judge of literature if it was his aim to tickle his readers when he secured for publication "Poly of the Circus." Her circus talk would make a "nigger" laugh, and the only fault we find is that he didn't give us the whole story in one issue.

Some men don't have any wives with waists with buttons on to button any more than a rabbit.—Richmond Climax.

"What's the scarest thing in all the wide world?" We asked an old fellow who was hoarse. He coughed a little bit and then he said: "Why, the children of old maids, of course."

The first temperance society is said to have been founded by Margrave Frederick V in 1600, and it is instructive to learn that the members of that society were bound by a pledge, good for two years, not to drink more than seven bumpers of wine with any meal nor more than fourteen bumpers a day. They were, however, permitted to quench any surplus of thirst with beer and to drink one glass of whiskey on the side. By this ideal of abstinence may be gauged the ordinary drinking habits of our forefathers in the good old days when knighthood was in flower.—Morris Hillquist in Socialism.

An Indigestion Remedy Free

Many people who are otherwise healthy suffer from indigestion, or dyspepsia. When you consider that the stomach and allied digestive organs are the most important organs of the body, it would seem that a disorder there is to be taken very seriously. Dyspepsia cannot be treated the things they like; food sour in the stomach; then chronic constipation begins, or, as it often is the case, you have been constipated all along, and the stools are forced and irregular. But there is no use letting indigestion go until it becomes chronic and undermines your health. It is good advice to suggest to you that you go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the wonderful cure for stomach, liver and bowel troubles. That is what C. Fowler, of Cazenovia, Mich., did and he is well today. Others who did the same and are cured are Ida A. Fortune, of Grand Junction, Tenn.; B. F. Thompson, of Sheboygan, Wis., who actually considers that it saved his life. You can obtain a 50-cent or $1 bottle of the druggist, and take one according to directions. It will probably be all you need. It is a liquid, acts gently, never grips, and besides the laxative effect, contains exceptional tonic properties which tone the stomach and that is what is especially needed in indigestion. A stomach free from indigestion who have never used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can obtain a free test bottle by writing the doctor. It will be sent direct to your home without any charge. In this way thousands have proven to their own satisfaction Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the very thing needed to cure indigestion. When once you use this grand remedy you will throw violent cathartics, tablets, salts, etc. away.
